CONFERENCE

BOOKS OR TABLETS?

Helping Children Navigate the Digital World:

A joint challenge for parents, teachers, and policy-makers

How to help a child develop in the digitalised world?

What is the balance between analogue and digital tools in the lives of children and young people?

Should the aim of digitalisation of education be that it helps learning or should the digitalisation be an aim in itself?

How can education support children to grow into media mature adults ready to flourish in the digitalised world?

Experience the HERMMES approach in person

This policy-focused conference aims to bring together all stakeholders for quality digital education: European policy-makers, researchers, education professionals, parents, and more.

Shaping digital education policy together

This policy conference aims to bring together all stakeholders for quality digital education: European policymakers, researchers, education professionals, parents, and more.

Meet the keynote speaker

Mie Oehlenschläger is a tech ethics and policy expert advising private and public actors on the relation of children and technology. She is a member of an expert group on the Danish Government's framework for Big Tech in Denmark and the EU, a member of the Danish Council of Ethics, and of its Children and Youth Well-being Commission.
